

As televised, the story offers two rather weak spanking opportunities, which we can zip up a little with some minor adaptation. The first is in Part 4, when Jamie finds Victoria unconscious, fears she has been injured and admits how much she matters to him, whereupon Victoria wakes up and says, 'Jamie, I didn't know you cared.' Jamie's tone of reproof on the soundtrack is a clear indication that Victoria's bottom is in danger, but she manages to convince him that she really was unconscious and not tricking him as he thought. But that won't do for the Spanking Adventures! So in this version she has woken up a fraction earlier and feigned unconsciousness to let Jamie finish. She was enjoying hearing it from him, after all! But that means she can't protest convincingly enough when Jamie sits down, turns her over his knee, flips up her skirt and proceeds to mete out a brisk, efficient spanking to the seat of her matching black panties.

The second opportunity comes in Part 6. The Doctor has discovered that the weed is sensitive to the unique sound pattern of Victoria's screams, so he gets Price the engineer to record them for playback. Unfortunately Victoria finds it difficult to scream on cue. On television this is a desperate, pressured situation as the foam is literally at the gates, but for my purposes we need to take the sense of emergency down a notch or two: the recording is still needed as soon as possible, because the weed is in the impeller shaft and will soon break out into the complex, but at least it hasn't actually done so yet. That gives us a little leisure to play with. One other minor variant from the televised scene is that Victoria isn't given a handheld microphone to scream into: I need her to be a little more mobile during the recording, so for my version she is fitted with a microphone headset.

So all is not going well at the recording session. 'Och, I'll get her to scream for ye, Doctor,' offers an exasperated Jamie. He goes up to Victoria and whispers in her ear: 'If ye dinna scream right now, Victoria, I'll put you across my knee and give ye a good skelping - and on your bare bottom too!'

Victoria fixes him with a look. 'Jamie McCrimmon! If I thought for one moment that you were serious ...'

Jamie feels crestfallen: he thought he'd get a different reaction, but now has no option but to make good his threat. Over she goes, up goes her skirt, and, for the first time, Jamie pulls the waistband of her black panties down over the round double globes of her bottom. Victoria's eyes widen in terror. A slap cracks down, and a red handprint appears across her pink buttocks, overlapped with a second and a third as Jamie gets into the swing of his task. And, as her wobbling bottom progressively changes color, Victoria at last does as she was bidden: she screams, loud and long.

'I told you I could make her scream, Doctor,' says Jamie as he sets the sobbing Victoria on her feet.

'Yes, but I think you were rather drastic,' replies the Doctor. 'Now, Victoria, dry your eyes. You really have done very well.'